LILLY AMES DISCHARGED.

Sarber Wilkinson Did Not Wish to Prosec morning the case against Lilly Ames for assault to kill was dismissed for want of prosecution. The Ames girl is the fair-faced quadroon who created such a sensation on the morning of July 25 by appearing in the door of the barbershop of Albert W. Wilkinson at 2334 Washington avenue and shooting five balls at the proton avenue and shooting five balls at the proprietor's head from a double-action Smith & Wesson revolver, missing him every time. Wilkinson refused to appear to prosecute. In connection with the case Wilkinson avers that he never said that the Ames girl was recommended by a colored woman formerly employed by Dr. Louis Newman. The statement, he says, was attributed to him, but he never made it. Lily Ames, he declares, was the only colored girl employed in the establishment where Dr. Newman has his offices.

However, Maj. Brinck went to work again—this time seeking aid from local parties. For this purpose several meetings were held and attended by prominent capitalists and builders. Careful estimates of the cost of the improvement, and a conservative calculation of the prospective revenue from such a building were prepared for them and approved with some alterations and amendments. In the meantime it had been ascertained through Mr. Bailey that Mr. McLure would execute a 99-year lease of his ground on a basis of 6 per cent per annum upon a valuation of $170,000. This also was favorably received by the gentlemen who proposed to put up their money and an equitable adjustment of interests between the holders of the corner lease, and the new men, with whose means a lease of Mr. McLure's property was to be had, was arrived at.

With that object in view they secured by purchase a ninety-nine year lease of the corner and interested other parties with them to carry out the plan. J. B. Legg & Co. perfected a design for the building, eight or ten stories high, fire-proof throughout.

After this had been done it became apparent that the ground area was not large enough to induce the investment of the necessary amount of money to complete the proposed structure, and when that feature was developed active work, financiering and otherwise, was suspended for a time. Maj. Brifick, though, is a man of indomitable perseverance. He was never known to abandon a real estate project until he carried it out to A SUCCESSFUL ISSUE.

His record being at stake in this matter he immediately set about buying additional ground from Charles McLure, who owns the vacant property fronting 81 feet next to the corner place, and extending east along the south line of the avenue to the Lionberger

IMPROVEMENTS A GOOD INVESTMENT.

Julius Pitzman says that architects are now engaged making plans for elaborate gate entrances to the east and west end of Westmoreland place. These gates are to be of fancy and elegant design, to correspond with the character of the property to be adorned by them. The forest Park Improvement Co. is also considering the advisability of adding to the beauties of Portland place by putting into position 200 feet apart immense flower vases of very artistic design along the entire 2,700 feet front of that section of their property. Speaking of these contemplated improvements in connection with those which have already been made Mr. Pitzman says when he took charge of that property to beautify it the land which is now selling at $70 a foot was only worth $15.

PURCHASED A COUNTRY SEAT.

Paul Bakewell, son of Judge Bakewell, has purchased the Kinloch farm of sixty-five acres for $20,000 through the agency of Chas. H. Turner & Co. This property is in St. Louis County, near the junction of the Wabash and Narrow Gauge railways, at Graham Station, fourteen miles from the city, and comprises what is known as the Kinloch home site only.

G. V. R. Mechin, Secretary of the German-American, says that association, now forty-nine months old, loaned $5,000 at 20 per cent premium last evening to a member who is going to invest the money in the purchase of a home at Benton.

George N. Truesdale, Secretary of the Clerks' and Mechanics', says that at the first meeting of that association, held last evening, $22,320 was loaned at 25 per cent premium, the maximum limit, on ninety-three shares of the stock. This association is newly organized, yet the major part of the stock has already been subscribed.

Hungary has been forwarded to the State Department by Consul-General Goldschmidt of Ylenna:

"Austria proper will have an average crop of about 50,000,000 bushels; Hungary (as least 35 per cent below average), about 90,000,000 bushels, which will give the Austro-Hungarian monarchy 75 per cent of an average crop. The official report for 1887 reads as follows: Austria proper, 60,000,000 bu; Hungary, 140,000,000 bu; Austro-Hungary, 200,000,000 bu; Austro-Hungary, 200,000,000 bu; Austro-Hungary, 155,000,000 bu, while the approximated yield in 1889 is from 140,000,000 to 150,000,000 bu, hence there will be little or no export of wheat from the Austro-Hungarian monarchy. Last year's wheat, in elevators and in farmers' hands, is estimated at about 25,000,000 bushels. Germany, which used to supply Austria with her inferior grade of wheat for home consumption, while the latter country exported her own beauliful wheat, has prohibited export to Austria, so that she mush now necessarily consume her own product, which will leave, according to my calculations, very little, in fact nothing, for export. As to the other grains the prospects are no better. Rye, barley and oatsyleid a weak average crop; malze is very promising, while leguminous plants, potatoes and plums poor. Wine slowe is very promising, although the phyliozera for several years prévious reduced the grape harvest of this country cons'derably and nas shown up again this season. The vines present an unusually promising appearance, and the largest expectations are entertained."

reasonably well in the number of shares, and there was some trading in blocks. It was not what it should have been, however, as it was evident that there were a number of unfilled orders at the close of the session. Tourtelotte was strong, and was traded in to some extent. Cariboo holds the lower level and seems likely to stop there. Pine Grove had but little trading and was about where it has been, though stronger. West Granite did not score a trade. Trust certificates were not so dull, but Sugars made a big break. The demand for investment securities was urgent but with few in the market.

Tourtelotte on call was 16½ bid, 17½ asked; later 3,700 shares sold at 17½ and 1,000 at 18¾, and the close 17½ was bid and 18¾ asked, with places for fully 4,000 shares at 17½. The demand for the stock seems to be very good, and the impression is that it is going to go up. The possibilities of Aspen properties are in its favor. The history of the Cleiste shows this. The mail arrangement between Muldoon and Believue, covering Alturas County, is evidently very loose. Mr. Eugene Dean, who has just returned from there, says the mail is carried by a very small boy, whose parents reside on a ranch midway between the two places. When he feels like going out he makes a trip, but not otherwise. This accounts for the frequent delays of mining mail from there and the uncertainty of its arrival.

The Neath Shaft is now about down to the desired depth and it is expected that in a few days the cross-cut will be commenced to cut the voin where it has been estimated the old one will be found, or where the several veins in the property may unite.

The American had a check for a car load of ore, netting over $5,000. The company now has six cars at Pueblo smelter, and the letter received this morning stated that the smelter had now been fully repaired and placed in good condition, so that it will be able to go ahead now without further delay. This being the case the American's next check will probably be for about $30,000.

There was a demand to day for Consolidated Coal Co. securities. The stock ruled at $42 to $43, and the first mortgage 6 per cent bonds at 101 and interest. The company is said to be making a very good showing now.

The Postponement of the Execution Has No Visible Effect on Him.

Sheriff Pohlman was sitting with Anderson and his guards in front of the cell when the message came. It was handed to him through the bars by a Western Union messenger. He read the few words and then left the jail to ascertain whether or not it was genuine before he broke the good news to the condemned. Vice-President Overall of the Police Board had received a similar telegram, one corroborative of the other. Sheriff Pohlman thus assured returned to Anderson's action. The prisoner took the news with his accustomed coolness. Not a muscle of his features moved, and for several seconds no words escaped his lips. Then he smiled in a strange way and said:

"If it is God's will that I am not to die tomorrow, all right. Nobody can change the will of God, and the Governor only served as an instrument in his hands."

He accepted the congratulations of his guards without emotion and puffed at his cobpipe with his accustomed energy. At 6 o'clock the death watch was withdrawn and Jailer Callahan was once more in charge of the prisoner. He at once placed a jail guard over Anderson. This action he explained this morning when he said:

"The respite was granted on the question of insanity. It would not be safe to allow an insane man the liberty of the corridor. If he is insane he is not responsible for his actions. We shall guard him until further action is taken."

The one man who was the most pleased by Gov. Francis' action is Attorney Thomas B. Estep. When everybody else had given up hope and ceased their efforts in the condemnan's behalf, Estep labored on. Yesterday he made a last desperate effort with the result above stated. The papers sent on to Gov. Francis are quite lengthy and ponderous and it was to more thoroughly examine them that the respite was granted. The official papers from the Governor ordering the respite arrived to-day, Private Secretary Fanning bringing them to the Sheriff's office in person. Mr. Fanning re appointed as a day of national celebration, the elements have Republican. From the going down thereof the rain fell in fitful but heavy showers. The Grand Review was I marred by one of the Ladies that went out in this, the great official feature of the fetes, came home drenched to the skin, and with their tasteful dresses of foulard or crepe de Chine utterly ruined. The crowd that thronged the streets, rendered cantankerous probably by the bad weather, no longer showed the gay good nature that usually characterizes the Parisian crowd on such occasions. They showed their ill-temper by an attack that was made upon a fashionable Italian confectioner, M. Imoda, on the Rue Royale, who had put out an Italian flag from one of his windows and had neglected to supplement it with a French one. A gentleman who entered the establishment to take an ice called the attention of the proprietor to this omission. "It's none of your business," was the suriey anwer. Thereupon an attack was made by the ing of windows and the Rue Royale was rendered for an hour or so impassable for promenaders. Some arrests were made and the disturbance, which was really unimportant, was speedily quelled. But any affair of the sort is so rare on a French fete day as to require special notice. One very annoying feature of the fete was the noise which was kept up all night long in the streets for THREE NIGHTS.

not being confined to that of the 14th only, but beginning on the 13th and lasting till dawn on the morning of the 16th. Its most disagreeable element was the performance on the French horn by a band of young men who promenaded the streets, blowing away with all their might, from mid-night till 4 o'clock in the morning, effectually were within earshot. In the evening the illuminations were most magnificent. The Champs Elysees were lighted through their full length, not only with the customary lines and clusters of gas jets, but also with round orange-colored lanterns hung in great numbers on all the trees and showing like fruits of fire against the dark verdure. The illuminations at the Exhibition presented few points of noveity. The usual extra features, such as the lighting up of the Elffel Tower from base to dome, were presented, and the Tocoderow was all ablaze with multitudinous and many colored lights, presenting a charming spectacle when viewed from a distance. The crowd at night in the streets was something stupendous, and was remarkable for the large numbers of Americans that were present. I fact one heard the familiar speech of our native land on all sides almost as much as one did French. Russell Harrison, the High. Joseph Medill of Chicago and Miss Medil. Capt. Frank Mason. last night and the spectacle was even more perfect and brilliant than on Saturday and Tuesday nights.

The show is pronounced by all who have seen it far grander than the Pompeli spectacle of last season. The movements of the troops and the realistic representation of a battle and slegge make it more exciting and interesting. The preliminary programme of drills, sword practice, wirewalking and military evolutions of all kinds, makes an interesting introduction to the briffiant display of fireworks.

"The Brigands" is doing an excellent business at Schnaider's, the clever performance of the pretty opera by the company having put it in high favor.

"Amorita" has made the hit of the season at the Cave. The lovely music and attractive costumes and special features are received with warm approval by good audiences.

Pope's will be open next Sunday afternoon and night for two performances of Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels. That fine organization of minstrel talent stops here on its return from the Pacific coast and will disband after the performances Sunday.

BITTEN BY THE DOG.

Great Excitement on Franklin Avenue and an Unsuccessful Chase. John Bell, an employe of the Comfort-Henry Ice Co., was bitten by a dog supposed to be rabid last evening at Third street and Franklin avenue. The dog's condition was first discovered when he was on Sixth and Morgan streets, and he was chased by Police Officer. Rice, Buckle and Stenger down Third street. After biting Bell, the dog turned back to the vicinity of Fourth and Morgan streets, where he bit John Ralmer of No. 3751 Evans avenue. It is also said that the dog bit two or three other persons whose names were not learned. There was a crowd upon the streets at the time, it being about 6 o'clock, just as people were homeward-bound from work, and the scene was quite an exciting one. The dog made an attack upon Officer Buckle, who was obliged to use his club freely to keep from being bitten. A few shots were fired at the dog but he finally escaped and was followed by Officers Buckle and Stanger to Broadway and Brooklyn streets, where he was lost sight of.

Most readers of the Maybrick trial reports will agree with Mr. CHAUNCEY DE-PEW that it was the Judge's earnest and powerful plea for a verdict of guilty that alone carried the jury over the reasonable doubts for which the conflict of medical testimony afforded ample ground.

The admitted effect of the Judge's sum ming un against the accused in this case is arousing much feeling in England, and puts the working of the English system in a rather unfavorable light as compared with our method of limiting the part the Judge may take in a murder guilty is final. The Judge may scold the jury for finding such a verdict, but cannot set it aside, and it stands as a valid bar to any further prosecution, no matter how, earnestly the Judge may have sought to influence the jury against the accused. There, as here, the Judge may set aside a verdict against a prisoner and grant him a new trial, and even order the jury to bring in a verdict of acquittal. But here the sole other function of the Judge is to explain the law to the jury, enforce the proper rules for the admission of evidence and see that the accused has a fair trial according to law, while in England the Judge is permitted and expected to sift and weigh the evidence for the jury and intimate what the jury ought to believe from the evidence before them.

In this summing up for or against the accused the English judge acts as a prosadvocate, because the jury looks up to treasury. him as a calm, expert and impartial guide through the dark and complicated mazes of the evidence. As representatives of the throne all officials over there the people to its majesty. Judges especially, not being chosen by the people a superior and infallible order of beings. with it. The natural consequence is that when the English judge turns prosecutor and "sums up against the accused" the average English jury casts away all doubts which he does not seem to share and feels that it can with a clear conscience bring tlary, "if I am only permitted to write the in a verdict of guilty that will satisfy "My Lord" on the bench. Mrs. MAYBRICK's letters to her paramour proved her a wicked woman pleased at the prospect of her husband's dying soon, but there was no proof that she poisoned him, and the verdict against her seems to rest entirely upon the Judge's inference from the wickedness revealed in her letter to her paramour. So we see that the English system gives the Judge IF Messrs. Branham, Johnson and undue authority as a prosecutor and for its harshness or injustice to the shoulders of the jury.

contracts for printing and supplies of all kinds will be let in this city, and will amount to a considerable sum every year.

RULES TO BE ADOPTED.

This morning the Railroad Commissioners went into session at 16 o'clock. The Illinois inspection law was discussed and, while it was decided to adopt several of its features, it was unanimously agreed that the rules and regulations in force in this city were decidedly superior, and no changes of any moment will be made. The Chicago style of forms, receipts and book-keeping will probably be adopted, as the commissioners who visited that city for the purpose of gathering information concerning the manner in which the grain inspection was conducted are favorably inclined to the methods there prevalent. Chairman Downing stated that one of the principal aims both of the commissioners and inspectors would be to so conduct their business as to cause the least possible friction, and the oc-operation of the Merchants' Exchange was carnestly desired, while every possible pains consistent with the duties of the commissioners and the inspector would be taken to act in accord with the elevator men and grain dealers. Mr. Burks will visit Chicago to study the system prevalent in that city and will open his office in St. Louis during the early part of September.

will open his office in St. Louis during the early part of September.

A LARGE FORCE OF DEFUTIES.

The question of securing offices for the force to be employed by the Inspector came up before the commission. A number of real estate agents offered such quarters as they desimed suitable, but no decision was arrived at. The meeting adjourned for the morning at 11:30, the members making a visit to the various elevators to acquaint themseives with the local situation and gather such information as might be required. All stated that every effort would be made to act in unison with the St. Louis elevators and grain dealers. The plans advocated by them generally met with the approval of the commission and the Grain Inspector, and Chairman Downing said that there appeared to be scarcely a possibility of any serious dissatisfaction arising.

PROBABLE APPOINTMENTS.

The appointments of deputy inspectors is watched with great interest by the St. Louis grain dealers. About ten deputies will be employed in this city, and the entire force will be about sixty strong. Fifteen will find employment in Kansas City, and a considerable force will be stationed at St. Joseph. It was reported on the street that J. O'Shea of Union County was to receive the appointment of assistant chief grain inspector. The names of Frank Washington and Edward Robinson were also mentioned, and they will in all probability PROBABLE APPOINTMENTS. He is at the head of the present Board of Grain Judges. Mr. Washington is said to be equally qualified for the office for which he is mentioned. An Electric Railway Superin tendent Has Thrilling Experience.

STEUBENVILLE, O., August 9 .- A. G. Davids Superintendent of the Steubenville Electric Railway, had an experience yesterday with a direct Edison current which should be an ar gument for the opponents of the proposed execution of criminals by electricity. The electric railway is provided with the Sprague system of motors, the power being furnished by an Edison machine of 900 voltage. The troiley wire broke and ore end fell to the street. The electrician being absent Davids undertook to repair the damage himself by using insulated tools. The piters were dull and he had some difficulty in cutting the wire, but suddenly it parted and he received the full force of the 900 volt current. It knocked him to the ground and rendered him unconscious. He was soon revived and taken to his room, and beyond considerable nervous prostration is uninjured. He describes the shock to be the same as if he were struck on the breast with a club, but says that, while the pain was intense for the instant, it lasted such a short time that it was gone before he realized what had been done. Other employes of the railway have received shocks in a milder form, and all assert their fearlessness of coming in contact with the supposed deadly current. It leaves some of them qualmish at the stomach, but nothing serious has resulted. ecution of criminals by electricity. The elec CRICAGO, Ill., August 9.—A local paper says: The statement that oil has been found in Chicago will doubtiess astound many people, but nevertheless it is true. The "strike" was made at the house of a colored man named J. F. Platte who lives at 459 Clinton street. The oil was found in a catch basin and the discovery was accidentally made. The bottom of the basin was covered with oil to the depth of two or three inches. Three or four large demijohns of the fluid were taken out and a lighted match was applied to some of it that was spilled on the ground. It blazed up instantly and burned so dercely that it was necessary to throw dirt on the flames to extinguish them. The members of the family who made the find sooff at the idea that the oil may have escaped from gas pipes or any such place, and declare that they have struck a rieh flow of petroleum or crude oil.

THE BROWN-SEQUARD ELIXIB.

A Cincinnati Physician Makes a Number of CINCINNATI, O., August 9 .- Dr. Robert Longfellow, Professor of Dermatology in the Cin-cinnati College of Medicine and Surgery, conducted a series of experiments yesterday with Brown-Sequard's discovery. Tests were made in a dozen subjects. The first two patients were Thomas Alburn, an Englishman, 55 years all carried empty whisky flasks, fought with any article within reach, using their "corks" to spike each other. Many of them were quite seriously injured and none escaped with less tuan a bloody face. Conductor Fenn attempted to quell the disturbance, but together with the porter and the brakeman he was driven out and the rioters had undisputed sway until they were tired of fighting. The gang got off at a small station east of Hayward.

The Court-house is undergoing a thorough ctober the court-rooms will present an apcearance not seen for several years past. more than a month ago, and since than the wall-paperers and painters, gas fitters and electric light men have not left the building. The electric light wires are all in now and in every room in the building the pendent globes furnish amusement to the idle clerks. The fire alarm office also underwent an overhauling and the ceiling of that room ciers. The fire alarm office also underwent an overhauling and the ceiling of that room was papered for the first time since the Court-house was built. It was the last ceiling in the building to be covered up, on account of the free own over the famous artist Wimar, whose master hand still shines out in several paintings in the dome. The ceiling of the fire-alarm office was almost black with age and smoke, and the emblems in the freeso work were almost blurred out. In the four corners of the room, however, could be seen the scales of justice, a Masonic emblem, the pen and the sword and the sword of justice and the sword and the sword of justice and the scales. Wimar did a great amount of painting in the courtrooms of the Court-house; but they have long sirfee been covered up until all that remains of his paintings are the decorations in the dome, which are fast scaling off and duiling. There are four large and finely executed pictures of De Soto discovering the Mississippi River: a mountain scene in the West with buffalces in the foreground; an Indian massacre and Father Marquette among the Indians. It would seem cruel to paint these pictures over with common house paint, but such seems to be their coming fate in the general repairing place in the public-spirited columns of the FORGOT TO SEND THE PAPERS. The Examination for Government Positions

Forty-three applicants for positions as messengers and junior clerks under Uncle Sam were on hand in the Custom-house this Sam were on hand in the Custom-house this morning ready and eager to be examined as to their qualifications for the positions sought after. Mr. Culkin, Secretary of the local board of examiners, informed the applicants that he had not received the examination papers from Washington and consequently could not go on with the examination. To insure absolute fairness in these examinations the civil service examiners in Washington never send the papers to local boards in advance of the examination. They always arrive on the morning of the examination and the seal on the package is broken in the presence of the room full of applicants. Mr. Culkin telegraphed to Washington and received a reply about noon, saying the clerk forgot to mail the papers. They will be here to-morrow night and the examination will be held Tuesday.

Amanda Neunelly Swears Out a Warrant Against Mrs. Susie Harris.

A warrant was sworn out this morning street, with abduction. The information was filed by Amanda Neunelly, who occupies furnished rooms in a house on Ninth street between Clark avenue and Wainut street. Mrs. Harris is charged with stealing the 3-year-old child of Amanda Neunelly. The latter was seen at the Four Courts this morning. She is a young woman with prepossessing that was hard persed for money for a month and neglected to go around. About two match and paid her board regularly for three weeks. Then I was hard pressed for money for a month and neglected to go around. About two match and paid her board regularly for three weeks. Then I was hard pressed for money for a month and neglected to go around. About two weeks ago I obtained some money, but when I demanded my little one, but she would not give her up, and even refused to let me in. I demanded my little one, but she would not give no reason for her action. From a neighbor of Mrs. Harris I learned that Mrs. E. Long, 212 South Seventh street, had been seen to take my fertle away. We went to see Mrs. Horling at her home and found that she had moved two weeks ago. Where she has gone, nobody knows. I have no idea why these women should want my child. True, she is pretty and lovable, but that is no reason for stealing her from me."

THEY GOT GUNN.

A Horsethief Who Was Twice Arrested an

William Gunn, a resident of East St. Louis, was arrested at one of the sale stables on roadway, last week, while he was trying to sell a horse at a very modest figure, on suspitaken to the Third District Police Station and held for about twenty-two hours, but as no one appeared to prefer a charge against him he was released. Shortly after being released, Mr. Weber, an expressman of East St. Louis, came to the station and reported having had a horse, wagon, harness and soome goods stolen. He identified the horse that Gunn was trying to sell as the one that was stolen from him, and he afterward found the wagon, but the harness and goods that he had in transit have not yet been recovered. The police have been on the lookout for Gunn ever since, and about 9 o'clock last night Officer Haynesspied him at the corner of Fourth and Washington avenue and placed him under arrest. Webber, the expressman, was notified of the capture, but he explains that the matter has been compromised with him by Gunn's relatives, who paid him for the harness and goods that have not been recovered, and that he does not wish to prosecute Gunn for the theft. Gunn was released to-day.

and some amusement among experts who are regarded as being at billiards. Slosson, in commenting on it, declared that it is little short of lunacy to exin August, with general humidity wildly rampant; and, he added, somewhat sarcastically, that August was usually the season selected for shooting off a lot of billiard chin music that did not amount to shucks. He expressed profound doubt that Tom Foley had any such amount of money as he talks of wagering on Schaefer to lay upon a match between that cion of having stolen the animal. He was unquestionably brilliant expert and his rival, taken to the Third District Police Station and Slosson, > such tourneys after election. Slosson also remarks that there is no use of wagering $2,500 on a game of billiards now-a-days. There was much more sporting in the business, he says, in the old days when games used to be played for $250 a side. It would be beneficial, he thinks, to return to the good, old-fashioned style of match-making.

> > THE PROGRESS OF SPORT.

The Great Changes in Base Ball and Racing and What May Be Expected.

The present is a great age, and this fact is exemplified in sport as well as in anything else. What changes base ball and racing have undergone in the last ten years! Both have monize with the advanced ideas in other things until both have been radically changed. Whether they have improved is a question that will admit of argument. Take base ball, for instance. There are no games played now like there used to be, or if, perchance, a game, that recalls to the memory the sport as it was in former-years is played it is recorded as an unusual contest. The rules have been changed year by year with a view to making the game more a game of skill, and the game with fun is a thing of the past. In former days the pitcher was hardly a more important player than any other on the team. Then there was a change. The pitcher became the important player than any other on the team. Then there was a change. The pitcher became the important player. Everything centered on his ability, the rules in the meantime having been changed for the purpose of giving the man in the box a greater opportunity of distinguishing hisself. The result was that instead of having games which gave all the players almost equal opportunities, the people went to witness pitchers' battles. The rest of the players became mere automatons. The pitcher was the kingpin. Instead of going to see eighteen men play ball, the crowds saw frequently only an exhibition of two pitchers' skill. The scores became closer and probably the game more interesting to some. That there are many to whom it was less enjoyable, however, there is no question. But everything else was advancing rapidly and the national game must keep pace with the improvement in other things. But what was the result of the change in the game? for instance. There are no games played now question. But everything else was advancing rapidly and the national zame must keep page with the improvement in other things. But what was the result of the change in what was the result of the change in the year? The pitchers, who formerly lasted as long as any other players on the team, lost their usefulness in a few season. Many of them did not last through a season. The country was full of exploded phenomenons. This year it is worse than ever. There never has been more talk about pitchers than this season, and the clubs in the League and American Association have probably employed more pitchers than during any former year. It is all due to the importance which is player's work. To win success a pitcher must now either have the exception of the head and tail of the proventive delivery. This is the reason that so many fail, and that clubs are always hiring and on the lookout for men to fill the pitcher's position. The strain has become so great on the that it is a common practice now to pitch one man only a part of a game and then substitute another. At this rate of progression it might be expected in a few years to see a new pitcher put in the box every inning. But this is improbable only for the reason that twould be too expensive. It is more likely that some day the services of pitchers will be entirely dispensed with and the balls sent over the plate by some sort of a machine which will be entirely dispensed with and the balls sent over the plate by some sort of a machine which will be entirely and their tablity to play and their luck with the suits.

Henry Ammel, who killed his mother-inlaw, Mrs. Wilhelmine Schmidt, in March, 1885, on Dorcas street, died at the residence of his father, 2026 Kosolusko street, yesterday. Ammel was twice tried for the murder; the first jury disagreed and the second acquitted him on the insanity plea. Ammel's wife had died in childbirth a short time before the murder, and he charged that his mother-in-law was responsible for her death. He went to Mirs. Schmidt's house to get a chromo that had belonged to his wife, quarreled with her and killed her. He was released from Jail last February after the second trial. His long confinement had weakened him mentaily and physically.

The Browns and Brooklyns To-Morrow. The Brooklyn Base Ball Club, with Charley Pennant Byrne in front, and their black cat mascott in the rear, will arrive to-night from Columbus, and they will hie themselves in closed carriages to the Lindell Hotel. They will come fully equipped to take three straight from the Browns and go away thoroughly convinced that they will win the championship 'dead easy,' The local transfer company has been notified to be at the depot with a couple of big transfer trucks to convey the baggage of the Brooklyns to Sportsman's Park. Their belongings are mafely packed away in thirteen sample trunks, containing a collection of home runs, three-base hits, two-baggers and singles ad thitum, siot of umprical tips and a twe-rors in velvet cases. One trunk contains a prettily mascott in the rear, will arrive to-night from bound book entitled, "What I Know About Beating St. Louis Out of the Pennant.," by Charles Pennant Byrne. The book will probably be distributed as souvenirs. Tomorrow the biggest battle known in base ball will open up at Sportsman's -Park. The Browns and Brooklyns will fightes they never fought before to win the American Association flag. The victories and defeats between the two teams are a stand-off, each having seven to their credit. The two teams will be at their best, and the opening guns will be fired under the most favorable auspices. The Browns have again strock their winning gait, and their big pitchers, King and Chamberlain, are in great shape. Brooklyn is likewise playing pennant ball. Their pitching department is in prime trim. Bob Caruthers, Terry, Lovett, Hughes and last but not least, old Dave Foutz are all eager to pour their hot shot into the Browns' camp, and shey will all probably have an opportantly. When last here Dave Foutz asid he would pitch one of these games against the Browns. If he does not officiate to-morrow his side partner, Bob Caruthers, probably will. Elton Chamberlain will probably pitch for the Browns. Jack Boyle will do back-stop duty. "Play" will be called at 4p. m.

In a recent Boston-Cleveland game at Boston Kelly introduced a new trick. While coaching at third base the day being damp, McKean, Cleveland's shortstop, wore his bine cardinal jacket and, finding it uncomfortable, threw it down by third base. Is the eighth inning while Brouthers was on third with two men out Kelly quietly put on McKean's jacket, teiling Brouthers to take a big lead, at the same time holding up both hands to Zimmer to throw the ball to him. Zimmer, supposing it to be one of McKean's tricks, threw the ball with terrific storce to kelly, who howled out: "Go in, Dan; it's out by the back fence." A very fishy story.

Giving St. Louis a big push toward the top of the hill, it weighs all the way from a Ton up as high as you want to estimate, and is the sort of a name that will do to tie to. FAMOUS is a progressive House, and is proud to see St. Louis catching up so quick with New York in the great "go as you please" struggle for supremacy. We're the center of a great countryin fact, the "Hub" around which the great cities and commercial enterprises of Uncle Sam's Dominions revolve-and it's only a question of time when the City of St. Louis will be bounded on the north by the Missouri River and on the west and south by the Meramec. We are all going in to win now, and FAMOUS is squarely on the side of Nineteenth Century Enterprise, not forgetting OUR CREAT CLEARING SALE, which is now in full blast, and The World Fair in '92.

RATHER HIGH FOR MELON. Judge Cady's Restaurant Prices Higher

Than Those of the Eiffel Tower Judge Cady would make a good man for a first-class restaurant. He charges $10 for an order of watermelon. At least that is what he taxed George Spitz in the First District Police Court this morning. Spits is a teamster, about 26 years been compared to the battle of Oriscany, one of the hardest fought battles of the revolutionary war.

It is generally known that on the night of August 9 Gen. Lyon marched against the Confederate camp. The commander of the Confederate forces resolved to attack Springfield, but some incidents connected with the events of that exciting night are not so well known. In a recent talk with E. Y. Mitchell, who served on that occasion as Adjutant-General of the Missouri troops, and who was in the city the other day as one of the curators of the State University, some interesting partic-
